NATCOSEB

NATCOSEB aims to address the contemporary issues on self-assemblies of surfactants and the interfacial phenomena, their relevance in consumer related products viz., foods, cosmetics and pharmaceuticals. It also focuses on the developments in the field of adsorption, dispersion, drug, gel, surface coating, membranes, material science and material technologies. The XVIII conference of the biennial series is organized this year by the School of Chemistry, Sambalpur University, Sambalpur under the aegis of Indian Society for Surface Science and Technology (ISSST). The purpose of the conference is to discuss the recent developments and future prospects in the areas of surfactants, emulsions, biocolloids and related dispersed systems.

Indian Society for Surface Science and Technology

The Indian Society for Surface Science and Technology established in 1983 is a scientific organization devoted to cultivation and dissemination of knowledge in the field of surface science and technology. It also strives to promote Industry-Academia interaction through various academic activities such as seminars and symposia. NATCOSEB is one such event, which is being held once in every two years since its inception. ISSST publishes an international journal, i.e., Journal of Surface Science and Technology since 1985. For details of the activities of ISSST, please visit the website: www.issstindian.org

School of Chemistry, Sambalpur University

The School of Chemistry Sambalpur University started functioning from November, 1969 at University College of Engineering, Burla (now VSSUT) and later shifted to Jyoti Vihar campus in 1973. Today the school is enriched with the financial supports from Department of Science and Technology, Govt. of India and University Grants Commission through FIST and DRS programs, respectively. UGC has awarded multiple BSR fellowships for doctoral studies to this School. A group of highly qualified and dedicated faculties are working in various cutting-edge research problems in physical, organic, inorganic and environmental chemistry through active collaboration with internationally reputed academic institutes and industries.
